

Ferhan G. Sagin (M.D., Ph.D.) is a professor of Biochemistry at Ege University Medical Faculty. Over 20 years, she has taught Medical Biochemistry courses in the Medical Faculty as well as Oral Biochemistry courses in the Dentistry Faculty of Ege University. She has fully revised the curriculum in the latter implementing Team Based Learning (TBL) for the first time in Türkiye as an instructional strategy. She was elected as Distinguished Teacher by students votes, in Medical Faculty and Dentistry Faculty (2007, 2009, 2010, 2012). She served as one of the core members of the Committee on 'Research Scientist Track' of Ege University Medical Faculty, the first physician scientist training program in Türkiye.

Besides, delivering undergraduate courses, she is an active teacher&researcher&mentor at the postgraduate level. Her main research areas include the biomarkers (of atherosclerosis and inflammatory diseases) and molecular regulators of metabolism. She has worked as a visitor research fellow in Aarhus University, Denmark and Haifa Lipid Research Laboratory in Israel. She has over 50 papers published in SCI-indexed journals and more than 150 international presentations (poster and oral).

Since becoming a member in 2007, she has served on the Development Committee (2007-2011), Board of Directors (2009-2011), Public Affairs Committee (2010-2016) and Educational Scholarship Committee (2015-present) of International Association of Medical Science Educators (IAMSE). She has given talks & conducted workshops in many international conferences such as Asian Pacific Medical Education Conferences (Singapore); IAMSE Conferences, Conference of European Proclusters' Association (EPROCA).

She was the organizer of 'Trends in Undergraduate Biomolecular Science Education & Tips for Postgraduate Students and Beyond'-FEBS Education Workshop at Izmir, in 2012 to which more than 125 participants attended. In national and international congresses, she has given many conferences on educational technologies, TBL, student assessment and mentoring. Currently she is a member of the FEBS (Federation of European Biochemistry Societies) Education Committee. She also serves as the Vice-President of TBS (Turkish Biochemistry Society), Turkish Delegate of the FEBS Council and the Chair for Educational Activities of TBS.